On the evening of June 9th, 1997 officers of the Denver Police Department were called to 3931 Navajo Street on a report of a shooting. It was at this time that Federico "Fred" Gutierrez was discovered within the home's crawlspace suffering from multiple gun shot wounds. Federico Gutierrez was immediately transported to a local hospital, but died a short time later. During the course of the follow-up investigation it was learned that an associate of victim Federico Gutierrez, subsequently identified as Samuel Lopez (pictured above), became involved in a verbal dispute with the victim while in the home's basement. The verbal argument escalated to the point where Samuel Lopez shot Federico Gutierrez. After the shooting, Samuel Lopez fled the area. He was last seen driving a purple colored truck.
