Acknowledgements

This resource guide would not have been possible without the help of so many individuals. I would first like to thank the University of Colorado at Boulder's Public Interest Internship Experience, CU PIIE, program for giving me the financial support for my internship with the Denver Women's Commission. Also, thank you to all of the organizations that offered their time submitting information for this guide and multiple reviewing of the drafts, as well as several members of the Human Rights and Community Relations Agency, including Loretta Martinez for her tireless review and feedback on the drafts of this guide, and Chaer Robert, for her vision of this project, support, and ongoing consultations. THANK YOU!

About this Resource Guide...

The purpose of this guide is to provide information of services and programs available in Denver to monolingual Spanish-speaking women in the city and county of Denver. The accuracy of information and quality of services and programs listed in this guide are not within the control of the Denver Women's Commission. In addition, the organizations and programs listed in this guide are not endorsed by the Denver Women's Commission, nor does their inclusion in the resource guide indicate their endorsement of us. Please note that some organizations may have more English/Spanish bilingual capabilities than others, and some organizations have requested to make their limitations known in this guide, however, these organizations are willing and capable to serve monolingual Spanish-speaking clients.

This guide focuses on services available in Spanish and within the City and County of Denver. To access additional resources and information that does not appear in this guide, please contact Mile High United Way by dialing 2-1-1 or the City and County of Denver's 3-1-1:

- Dial three simple numbers...2-1-1 to reach United Way's 2-1-1 program to both get and give help in your community. United Way's 2-1-1 is a free, bilingual phone number that refers people to community resources and retains the largest database across the Rocky Mountain Region for health and human services. You can also access United Way's 2-1-1 online at www.unitedwaydenver.org.
- The 3-1-1 service is designed to provide one number to call for all of your City and County of Denver NON-EMERGENCY service requests, questions, problems, and concerns.

About Federal Poverty guidelines:

Some U.S. government programs and nonprofit organizations in this resource guide often use Federal Poverty guidelines to help determine eligibility for many of their assistance programs. This measure varies according to family size and other factors. For example, a family of three persons with an annual income of less than $17,170 per year falls within the 2007 Federal Poverty guidelines. As such, 185% of this guideline for a family of three is $31, 764. Percentages of eligibility vary from program to program.

In the Spanish version, some of the names of organizations have been translated solely for clarification purposes and these translated names are not the official names of the organizations or programs, however, both official and translated names have been listed.

*If you would like to add your Denver organization to this resource guide or update the information listed, please contact the Denver Women's Commission at 720.913.8450, or by e-mail: chaer.robert@denvergov.org.
