Questions and Answers Addendum #1

Q1: Concerning the 150 number within the RFA, is that 150 different sites or programs and can you provide some clarifications around that?

Answer: 150 would be inclusive of the sites and programs, some of those surveys may be duplicative depending on the program type. We are looking to have consistency for aggregate data but it would be that many different places would be doing surveys.

Q2: Methods, is there any interest in additional methods to the kiosks or if the kiosks are really the focus and only method the city is interested in collection survey data through?

Answer: We are hoping to have multiple methods. Big picture, the kiosks are more accessible for shelter sites that they are available and readily available for folks that are in shelter sites. But for other program types, we imagine more of an online survey where their folks are getting links to those surveys from case managers and others to be able to complete like a rapid rehousing program. I suppose if it wasn't a kiosk we would want something that is like a hard object that's available for folks to be able to provide in real time response and shelter spaces.
